NUMBER 8

It is possible the Legislature may adjourn next week. There are scores of bills to kill and only a few to pass, and the work can be done in ten days.

The increase in the number of Congressmen in Wisconsin to nine will probably prove a very good Democratic scheme. It will virtually give the Democrats an extra member of Congress.

While the Republican press throughout the country approves the decision of the Congressional caucus to leave the tax on tobacco and whisky as at present, the Democratic press follows its members of Congress and clamors for free whisky and cheap tobacco.

Some time ago Jenny Lind wrote a letter in which she advised young American girls who wish to go abroad to study music, to stay at home, "where the music is just as good as in Europe, and where the husbands are much better." The European husbands picked up by American girls have never proved a success.

The fact that the Democratic party is compelled to take for a hero who has been dead thirty-seven years, has called out the suggestion that it would be a good thing to have a live hero for a while, and if there is a man in the Democratic party who is going to succeed Andrew Jackson, he had better come to the front now so that the party for the first time in forty years, can boast of a live hero.

The last year has been very prolific so far the discovery of comets is concerned. There is a big stock on hand but the one discovered only a few days ago, by Professor Wells, of the Dudley Observatory, at Albany, should not be forgotten. It is a good one, and was found fooling away its time a Hercules. Professor Wells has not yet introduced the new comet to the public and probably won't for several days. While the number of comets is being increased they are not in the way, do not need watching, and as the astronomers like to find them, therefore let the good work go on.

Unless all signs fail, Assemblyman Price will reap, in connection with the Democrats, some benefit from the Congressional appointment. He has made a district which suits himself. He has taken some anti-Price element out of it and thrown it elsewhere to torment others. What Mr. Price wants is to go to Congress, and likely he can see his way clear under the plan which he and Jo Rankin and a few other Democrats have agreed upon. By the way, Mr. Price has not had much of a stock of political capital this winter. He has said a great deal, but most of his time has been spent in boasting of his own righteousness and sounding his own praise. He thinks more of Hon. William T. Price's ability than he does of any other man's in the State.

Woman's suffrage has again been defeated in the Legislature of this State. A bill was introduced in the Assembly to grant women the right to vote at school district elections, and to hold any office voted for at such election. This was all right, and should have been passed. But Mr. Price offered an amendment the effect of which would be to amend the constitution so as to give women the full right of suffrage. This was an entirely separate proposition from the first, and not being germane to the original question, was voted down in the Assembly by a vote of 50 to 36. Mr. Price then offered an amendment to grant the right of suffrage to women at municipal elections. On the motion of Mr. Fred Horn the amendment of Price was tabled, carrying the bill with it, and thus through the blind zeal of Price a very worthy bill came to defeat.

THE CIRCUIT JUDGESHIP.
The Jefferson County Democrat, supports Mr. Bennett for the circuit judgeship, and in its issue of this week, publishes the following editorial endorsement:

"The almost unanimous call which this gentleman has received from the Bar press and the people is sufficient evidence that he is worthy of the honor which his colleagues seek to bestow upon him. For the past thirty years the name of John R. Bennett has been esteemed and respected by all who knew the characteristics of that gentleman, and for years he has been admitted to be one of the leading members of the Rock county Bar. We know of no gentleman in the circuit who can follow in the footsteps of Judge Conger with more certainty of success, and support from all members of the bar. Legal ability, sound judgment and a true sense of right and justice are the characteristics which John R. Bennett has earned for over thirty years. The discussions which the personal enemies of John R. Bennett have been striving to sow amongst the people are not of sufficient importance to have any material significance. All men have their personal enemies, but few men have less of them than John R. Bennett, and his success which he has so richly won with many years of true service to the people and to the bar, will and shall be worthily bestowed on the 4th of April.

After speaking of the declaration of Judge Conger, of January 9, 1882, at which he said that he was not and would not be a candidate for reelection, the Democrat said:

The members of the Bar had thus to look forward to the selection of some other gentleman worthy of and able to perform the duties which devolve upon the office. Amongst the gentlemen named by the press were John R. Bennett, of Janesville, and L. W. Bird, of Jefferson. Each of these gentlemen are well known for their integrity and ability, but as is generally the case "Rock" county is the rock on which the great ones must stand, and how ever loud the Jefferson boys might have sung "Rock of Ages Cleft for Me," the old Rock would not feel inclined to be cleft or budge an inch. The merits or demerits of the two named gentlemen are equal, and each of them are esteemed and respected by all who know them. As the time approached the idea of a contest did not grow but rather diminished and the Bar almost unanimously requested that John R. Bennett should accept the nomination. There are few who will deny the wisdom of this nomination and many who will endorse it.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Special to the Gazette.

ASSEMBLY.
MADISON, March 24.—In the Assembly this morning the bill appropriating one thousand dollars to the Northern fair was concurred in.

Speaker Gilson, who was out of the chair was called before the bar of the House and presented with an elegant gold watch by the members of the Assembly.

There is considerable feeling here today over the fact that a telegram was received from the delegates from Wisconsin in Congress expressing dissatisfaction with the Congressional apportionment, which has stirred up the indignation of the members of the Legislature, who plainly say that Senators and Congressmen had better attend to their own business, and a resolution was introduced that the interference from Washington was ill-advised and impertinent.

A committee of conference was appointed in each house over the disagreement on the Senate and Assembly apportionment bill.

SENATE.
An amendment was adopted in the Senate taking Clark county from the Eighth and putting it in the Ninth district.

The bill for the enlargement of the State capitol, and appropriating two hundred thousand dollars, was passed by both houses.

The Republican members of the Legislature will hold a caucus this evening, on apportionment matters.

BAKERY IN ASHES.

Special to the Gazette.

CINCINNATI, March 24.—Holmes & Co's bakery burned this morning, and George Gerring, foreman, perished in the flames.

LONGFELLOW DYING.

Special to the Gazette.

BOSTON, March 24.—The poet Longfellow is in a dying condition, from peritonitis. His physicians have abandoned all hope, and the family have been summoned to his bedside.

AN AGREABLE DRESSING FOR THE HAIR, that will stop its falling, has been long sought for. Parker's Hair Balsam, distinguished for its fully supplies this want.

CLEVELAND'S FIRE.

Special to the Gazette.

CLEVELAND, March 24.—Southworth's wholesale grocery house, and Krohn & Co's, furniture store and Brown's drug store, burned this morning. Loss $200,000.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 23.—The big, best fire Cleveland has had for a long time, started at 2 o'clock a. m.

W. P. Southworth's wholesale and retail grocery, the largest establishment of the kind in the city, located on Ontario street, was the first to burn, the whole concern, including stock worth $85,000, being destroyed.

The block caught from this, and at this hour it looks as if the whole street, from the public square to Prospect, would be laid in ashes.

The firemen make but little headway on account of the burning oil and exploding powder.

The total damage by the fire cannot be approximated, but it is spreading every moment, and it now looks as if several hundred thousand dollars worth of valuable property would be destroyed. The firemen are making no headway.

It is impossible to learn the amount of insurance.

The next fine two-story block is about destroyed, and the fire is increasing in every direction. At 3:30 a. m. the fire is under control.

Pretty Girl.

John Bacon, Laporte, Ind., writes: "Your 'SPRING BLOSSOM' is all you cracked it up to be. My dyspepsia has all vanished; why don't you advertise it; what allowance will you make if I take a dozen bottles, so that I could oblige my friends occasionally?" Price 50 cents trial bottles 10 cents.

Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

THE CONGRESSMEN OBJECT.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The Republican members of Congress from Wisconsin, have sent the following telegram to Madison:

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23, 1882.—We do not approve committee plan. Extra member should not be given Democrats. Spooner plan far better.

Signed: PHILETUS SAWYER, ANGUS CAMERON, GEO. C. HAZELTON, L. B. CASWELL, H. L. HUMPHREY, C. G. WILLIAMS, R. GUENTHER, THAD. C. POUND.

ROBBED HIS BROTHER.

MADISON, March 23.—The authorities here have received information that a few days ago John Nall and N. C. Nall, brothers, drove some cattle from Argyle, Lafayette county, Wis., by way of Gratiot to Warren, Jo Daviess county, Ill., sold them, and stopped for the night at the house of a friend, three miles north of Warren. Early next morning N. C. Nall got up, took from his brother John a pocket book containing $1,579, got a horse out of the barn, mounted him and disappeared.

No Such Word as Fail.

"I have used your SPRING BLOSSOM for dyspepsia, headache, and constipation, and find it has done me a great deal of good. I shall recommend it to my friends. HENRY BERTOLETTI, May 24th. 96 Main St., Buffalo." Price 50 cents; trial bottles, 10 cents.

For sale by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

AN ELEVATOR FIRE.

ST. PAUL, March 22.—A Moorhead special to The Pioneer Press says: Last night Barnes & McGill's elevator at Hawley was burned to the ground. The fire broke out about 10 o'clock, in what manner is wholly unknown. The elevator contained at the time of the fire 150,000 bushels of wheat, all of which is lost. Mr. McGill, who lives here, states that there was an insurance on the wheat and elevator for about two-thirds of their value, in the Manhattan, of London, and Liverpool, and the Globe and the Equitable Assurance company, of New York. The value of the wheat and building was about $200,000. Barnes & McGill will probably rebuild promptly.

Proof Positive.

We have the most positive and convincing proof that THOMAS' ELECTRIC OIL, is a most effectual specific for bodily pain. In cases of rheumatism and neuralgia it gives instant relief.

Sold by A. J. Roberts and F. Sherer & Co.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

OSHKOSH, March 23.—Robert McGonagel, ticket agent in the employ of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad at this point, was absent from his post this morning, and a note on his desk stated that he had taken a leave of absence, and that he would settle his debts when he returned. McGonagel has been a trusted employee, but it is presumed he has been living beyond his salary. His comrades claim to have no knowledge of his whereabouts. Hints of suicide are scattered by his friends.

IT MUST STOP.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The people of the Pacific coast received the intelligence at 5 o'clock this afternoon that the House had passed the Chinese bill by a vote of 177 yeas to 65 nays, and Messrs. Page and Pacheco, the champions in the lower branch of the national legislature, are thus assured of a re-election. Great interest was manifested in the last day's proceedings, and the galleries were thronged with handsomely and brilliantly attired ladies and their escorts to witness the encounters and listen to the debates attendant upon keeping away for a score years the hordes of Mongolians who are anxious to swarm over the fertile coast on the west of the continent.

A WISCONSIN MOONSHINER.

WAUPACA, Wis., March 23.—Waupaca county seems to be vying with Kentucky in the moonshine business. To-day the chairman of one of the interior townships made affidavit that one Jacob Suhs was manufacturing and selling ardent and intoxicating liquors without paying revenue license thereon, and prayed that a warrant might be issued for his arrest. Accordingly, the sheriff prepared himself and drove to the residence of Suhs, some seven miles from the city. The defendant has a large vineyard, and every fall manufactures several hundred gallons of wine from the product thereof. It is claimed that no revenue or license is paid on this wine, and there should be. When the sheriff arrived he was not met with a shot gun brigade, but cordially welcomed to the house, where the proprietor was found asleep in bed. After the object of the officer's visit was made known, the manufacturer of the invigorating and the sparkling expressed his regret at the turn affairs had taken, and promised that as soon as his health would permit he would make his appearance before the court and stand trial.

WOMEN ARE EVERY USING and recommending Parker's Ginger Tonic, because they have learned from experience that it speedily overcomes despondency, indigestion, pain or weakness in the back and kidneys, and other troubles peculiar of the sex.—Home Journal. See adv.

FIRE AT LEAVENWORTH.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., March 23.—The mill and elevator of A. B. Havens & Co. were burned here this afternoon. The fire originated from an explosion of mill dust that tore a hole in the roof, blew out the windows, and shattered the building. The flames followed so quickly on the explosion that A. B. Havens, William Brummer, assistant miller, and Frank O'Day, packer, were badly burned. Mike (Helen), packer, and Robert Adams, head miller, were scorched. The mill contained 12,000 sacks of flour. The flames communicated to the elevator near the mill, which contained 1,800 bushels of wheat, and that burned. The Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific freight depot across the street caught fire, but was saved. The loss is $75,000.

GOLDEN'S LIEN'S LIQUID EXTRACT OF BEEF AND TONIC INVIGORATOR. As a tonic in all cases of debility and weakness, cannot be surpassed.

PRESIDENT APPROVED IT.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The President approved the anti-polygamy bill.

HELD IN BAIL.

HUDSON, Wis., March 23.—Mrs. Miles and Toke Travers were brought before Justice Evans on the charge of attempting to murder George Miles. They waived examination, and were bound over to the May term of the Circuit court in $2,000 bonds each, which both procured. It is expected that the same proceedings will follow in the adultery case on the 26th.

DANGEROUS TENDENCIES.

To the Editor.

"Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." In some unguarded moment, or in some severe cross-examination, a man may utter a single word, that will indicate fairly to the close observer the secret motives, which are controlling his life and actions, so the act of one individual in the assassination of a high official of a nation, as the demands of a certain set of men, in the mob riot and the strike indicate the working of a heaven which is extensive in its operations and far-reaching in its fatal consequences. Instead of law and order executed by proper authorities, we have the desires and impulses of individuals and classes or sets of men rising to assert what they call their rights, and that right in face of well established principles of order and government.

There is just at this time a striking epitome of this impulsive and lawless tendency before this whole nation. The assassin strikes down our chief executive, and for that act deserves the extreme penalty of the laws, not only as a punishment for his crime, but as an example, and a warning to lessen the tendency to a repetition of the same crime, and thus to protect human life, which is the chief design of all penalty in such cases. With this view of penalty which must from the very nature of things be the correct one, all ideas of malice or revenge must be rejected. Men cannot shield themselves by what they call righteous indignation for a horrible crime, and be justified in punning and joking upon any human life, be it that of a noble statesman, or a low villain, and whoever does this defeats the very principle which he seemingly attempts to establish and cherish, viz.: The protection of human life against the malicious and revengeful impulses of others. The law demands by its enactment and should cherish by its various operations, respect for the rights of the property, and especially the life of all men. Lessen by flippant and revengeful sayings and publications this respect for the life principle even in the lowest type of humanity, and you involve in the disrespect thus fostered, the very highest type. The constitution of our government fully recognizes the sacredness of this principle of life that animates every human breast, for it has made a careful provision for a trial by proper authorities of the foulest criminal, and any man who snatches from proper authorities their prerogatives, only added to the crime, which it is the ordained duty of said authorities to suppress. Two school boys engaged in a quarrel in which an arrogant, mean fellow inflicts severe injuries upon his school mate, who may be for his superior in good traits of character; but a friend of the injured party takes the matter in hand and severely punishes the one who has inflicted the injuries, and then another boy took the law and its penalty in his hand, and a third party is whipped, and so on all infinitum—and the majesty and dignity of proper authorities have been entirely discarded. A man steals a certain piece of property from his neighbor, and another man in town steals from him, which of the two thieves is the greatest criminal? And who would think for a moment, that because the second thief stole from a mean man he ought to go unpunished. The assassin strikes down one of the fairest lives of our land, a man honored and great in position and sterling qualities of mind, and heart, and of the noble nature of the crime this whole nation cannot speak and act too positively; but what check is given to the murderous element lumbering in revengeful breasts if a soldier, who is placed on guard to protect the life of the assassin, instead of doing this attempts to shoot him down, is protected from that penalty which his act deserves. A certain military gentleman touches the key note to the true situation, when he says "it would be mockery to pardon him; I sincerely hope that the powers that be will not sign such a wholesale license, for such an invasion of the majesty and dignity of law as the pardon of Mason would be."

The Man at the Junction.

Six railway passengers were put down at a junction to wait for a cross-line train. The little depot was the only building in sight, and the man in charge of it was not a telegraph operator. He simply kept the station-house and flagged the trains, and he was no more responsible for the running of trains than the Tyeon of Japan.

"Is that train on time?"
"I guess so."
"You guess so! Don't you know?"
"No, sir."
"You don't, eh? Then how do you know it isn't an hour late?"
"I don't."
"Don't, eh? Well, if that train's late, you'll—"

Here he was elbowed away by the old woman who made up the six, and who wanted to know—
"Will I get home to-day?"
"I guess so."
"The train stops here, does it?"
"Yes, sir."
"Stops long enough for me to get on?"
"Oh, yes."
"Well, mebbe it does, but if it don't you'll hear from us!"

She gave place to a man who had looked at his watch three times in six minutes, and who sternly asked:
"Did I understand that we were to wait here two hours?"
"Yes, sir."
"Is it two hours before that train crosses here?"
"Yes, sir."
"Whereabouts on the line is the train now?"
"I don't know."
"Why don't you telegraph?"
"We have no instrument here."

"Haven't, eh! That's a pretty state of affairs! Two long hours, and perhaps four! Now, then, if—"
Here he was called away by the blowing of a saw-mill whistle, and the most peaceful-looking man in the crowd edged up and inquired:
"Train on time?"
"Yes, sir."
"Does it cross here?"
"Yes, sir."
"Always stop?"
"Always."

"If I should get left here to-night it would cost somebody a good round sum." In the course of the next ten minutes the other two men approached and indulged in about the same style of conversation, and after an interval of ten minutes he was asked what time it was, why he was not an operator, why the trains didn't make close connection, and why on earth he didn't have an eating-house in connection with the station. He had a civil answer for every question, and his patience never wavered until just four minutes before train time. Then the old woman said to him for the twentieth time:
"Do you 'spose I'll miss the train?"
"I hope not," he quietly replied, "for if you do I shall take to the woods!"

And at that the six passengers gathered on the end of the platform, went into conversation, and were unanimously "Resolved, That the arrogance and impudence of public servants must be and is hereby sternly rebuked."—Detroit Free Press.

The Weight of the Transgress.

By almost universal consent, the light-weight championship is conceded to dealers in coal. As water under milk, and glucose to the lager beer, so are the platform scales to the coal cart. It would be unjust to charge large numbers of honest and reputable dealers to say that their coal is like the fellow who said that when he was made he weighed a ton, but the conduct of disreputable and dishonest dealers has a tendency to throw suspicion upon all of them. According to the statement of one who has tried it, it requires the spirit of a martyr to be an honest dealer, at least in New York. He tells a doleful story of the difficulties, not to say dangers, he encountered in trying to deliver 2,000 pounds for a ton to his customers. He began by announcing that any one buying coal of him could test its weight at any of the public scales. The result was astonishing. Orders came in from all directions and not more than one in ten ever wanted to test it. When cartmen came from other yards he had to enlarge their carts. For these offenses he was set upon by a member of the Coal Association and beaten; his cartmen were got away from him; they tried to prevent his vessels from landing; broke his derricks, and he had good reason to think that they shot at him or had him shot at. So that it is not the weight of transgressor, but the other man's, that is hard.

Love Your Neighbor.

When your friend or neighbor is laboring under bodily affliction, indigestion, biliousness, constipation, caused by impurity of blood, or disorders of the kidneys or liver, don't fail to recommend BURDOCK'S BLOOD BITTERS, a sure and safe remedy. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

Autographic Telegraphy.

Cassell and Mayer are associated with autographic systems of telegraphy that deserve consideration, because out of these systems there has come an American invention that promises much for cheap rates. Two pendulums, one at each end of a line, are set in motion by clock-work, and the swing or beat of one is made to electrically correct the motion of the other, so that they move together. At the transmitting end of the line is a platen connected with the wire, and on this is laid a sheet of foil on which the message has been written in a certain kind of ink. A needle or style is made to pass from side to side over the foil, moving down a fraction of an inch between each stroke (on the principle of the machine tool planer). While it passes over the ink-marks it is insulated, and the circuit is intact. At the receiving end is a sheet of paper connected with the earth, and moistened with certain chemicals. There is also a style connected with the line, and having the same planer-like motion. The movement of the two styles is controlled by the pendulums, and they move together. Now while the circuit is whole, the style leaves a stain or trace on the paper. When the current is broken no mark is made and the paper is left white. In this manner the letter written on the foil is produced in white on a blue ground at the receiving end. This system seemed to promise a great deal, and it has been used on a commercial scale, but its effect on telegraph rates has not been noticeable. —Charles Barnard, in Harper's Magazine.

Barbers in Europe.

I have now been shaved in seven kingdoms and in six languages. They all perform the ceremony differently. But they all, from Scotland to Naples, insist on seating you in a plain, straight chair, and bending your head over back till your spine bows in agony. And they agree in another custom—they never wash off the soap they put on. But they bring you a bowl of water, hold it under your chin as you are leaning back, and insist on you washing your own face and then there. If you object to the attitude they shrug all the upper part of themselves and sling a disdainful smile at you; if you comply little rivulets run pleasantly down inside of your shirt, and some of the soap they have generously swigged into your ears gets into your stockings. I have seen no barber wash his victim's face since I landed at Glasgow. Prices vary. In London they charge a shilling (25 cents) for a shave; in Naples they will, for 50 centimes (10 cents), shave you, cut your hair, wash your face and hands, curl your eyebrows and was your mustache till you look like Victor Emmanuel, and can pass for a Prince on any of the side streets. Yesterday I was shaved for 10 centimes—about two American cents—but I took the balance out in garlic, of which I had a generous bath in the form of respiration. In Verona, the city of the loved and loving Juliet, the barber asked me if I would have my feet washed and my toe-nails cut! That, certainly, is going to extremes. —W. A. Croft's Naples letter.

England and the Yorktown Affair.

Nor did the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown end the war; it was the beginning of the end. England was weary of the struggle, though many, like the gentle poet Cowper, might have sympathized with the conscientious scruples of the King in refusing to cede any of the dominions he had sworn in his coronation oath to preserve intact. But others were of a different opinion. Fox rejoiced at the news, knowing that it presaged the close of the unhappy war, and his opinion was so far shared by Parliament that on April 19, 1783—exactly eight years after it broke out—Washington was able to announce to his army that all was over. We cannot believe that any one nowadays holds any other opinion than that of Fox. Had Cornwallis been able to carry out his plans, the struggle might have been protracted a little longer. But the colonists could never have been crushed, and in the coming Napoleonic war would undoubtedly have recovered what they had lost. —London Standard.

Platonic Friendship.

Miss Phelps, in her story, "Friends; a Duet," expresses frankly and clearly the opinion that a man and woman, with favorable circumstances, cannot perpetuate a friendship without contemplating or perpetrating a marriage engagement. She vigorously discourages the Platonic affection theory, and places marriage as a "concomitant" confidently to be expected, whether it is "devoutly to be wished" or not. Charles Reade more explicitly put forward the same idea years ago.

Death of the Presidents.

George Washington, the first President of the United States, died at his home, Mount Vernon, on the 13th of December, 1799, and was there buried. John Adams, the second, and Thomas Jefferson, the third President, both died on the Fourth of July, 1826. Adams was buried beneath the Unitarian Church at Quincy and Jefferson was buried at Monticello, his Virginia home. Madison died June 28, 1836, and was buried at Montpelier, his home on the Virginia mountains. Monroe died on the Fourth of July, 1831, at the residence of his son-in-law in New York, and he was first buried in the Marble Cemetery of that city, but was finally buried in Holywood Cemetery, Richmond, Va. John Quincy Adams, died in the Capital, February 21, 1818, and was buried by the side of his father at Quincy. Jackson died June 8, 1845, and was buried at the Hermitage, which had long been his home. Van Buren died July 24, 1862, and was buried at Kinderhook, his home. Harrison died April 4, 1841, and was buried at North Bend. Tyler died January 17, 1862, and was buried in Holywood Cemetery, Richmond. Polk died June 15, 1849, and was buried in the town of his own home in Nashville. Taylor died July 9, 1850, and was buried in Cave Hill Cemetery, Louisville. Fillmore died March 8, 1874, and was buried in Forest Lawn Cemetery, near Buffalo. Pierce died October 8, 1869, and was buried in Mount Cemetery, Concord. Buchanan died June 1, 1868, and was buried in Woodland Hill Cemetery, Lancaster. Lincoln died April 15, 1865, and was buried in Oakridge Cemetery, Springfield. Johnson died July 31, 1875, and was buried at Greenville. Garfield died September 19, 1881, and was buried in Lakeview Cemetery, Cleveland. Four Presidents died in office—Harrison and Taylor by illness, and Lincoln and Garfield by assassination. Only two ex-Presidents are now living—Grant and Hayes, and three Vice Presidents are yet living—Hamlin, Colfax and Wheeler.

RASHNESS AND HASTE MAKE ALL THINGS INSECURE.

A Goose Story.

Few governmental institutions in Germany, organized with a view to meet public requirements, are conducted in so large-hearted a spirit as the imperial postoffice. This department comprehensively fulfills the functions of a national carrier, and will take charge of and deliver at its address any and every description of article. In the Fatherland an elephant or a canary bird may be sent by post as readily as a letter or a newspaper. Dr. Stephan, we believe, draws the line at savage carnivora or venomous snakes; but his officials daily transmit beasts, birds, and fishes, alive or dead, of a harmless character, from one part of Germany to another. A goose was posted in Berlin. Being insufficiently addressed it could not be delivered, nor, strange to say, could its original owner be traced; so, after a certain period of time had expired, it was put up for sale to defray expenses of inquiry. The official acting as auctioneer held it up by the neck to show off its beauty, having untied its wings before going so, and, as it revolved in his grasp, discovered, to his surprise, a small paper parcel that had been hidden away under its left plume. On opening this package it was found to contain 3,500 marks—about £175—in bank notes. The authorities have not yet succeeded in discovering the eccentric personage who, having intrusted a de-functo goose with the conveyance of so important a sum to his or her friend in the provinces, did not even take the necessary measures to insure the foolish bird's safe arrival at its destination. Not to address a goose properly before posting it, is surely the height of negligence. —London Daily Telegraph.

Painting Tin Roofs.

The best paint for tin or iron is composed of pure linseed oil and earthy ochres, red or yellow. The coarser granulated powders are best as a pigment, as they offer less air holes and give a firmer hold for the oil on the grills and thus bend them to the metal. The oil in this manner gets close to the metal and offers resistance to the air in removing the atoms from its cohesion. Beware of all metallic oxides or mineral paints, especially on lofty towers or inaccessible coverings of metal. Roofing tin should, when laid, be kept clear from windfalls of dust, and painted once in every two or three years, by the day—never by contract. Metals applied in the angles of roofs, as flashings, where shingles are laid behind parapet walls, should be well painted on both sides, and be exposed crevices between the laps painted and painted, and thus cut off leaks in corners "which no feller can find out." Woodwork should never be allowed to close down on the metal, but instead, a space of one or two inches should always be left, so that paint can be easily applied to all flashings on all sides, and where the dust can be easily swept out. Many troublesome leaks occur from the base of balustrades shutting down so close that dirt is completely imprisoned, and, consequently, in time decomposition sets in and the metal coverings are ruined. Bay windows, with balconies, or with other ornaments, if put on with an idea of permanency, should leave ample room for the painters' brushes to reach every angle, nook or corner, and thus save a thousand leaks. —California Architect.

Books.

It is chiefly through books that we enjoy intercourse with superior minds, and these invaluable means of communication are within the reach of all. In the best books great men talk to us, give us their most precious thoughts and pour their souls into ours. God be thanked for books. They are voices of the distant and the dead, and make us heirs of the spiritual life of past ages.

Books are the true levelers. They give to all who will faithfully use them the society, the spiritual presence of the best and the greatest of our race. No matter how poor I am—no matter though the prospect of my own time will not enter my obscure dwelling, if the sacred writers will enter and take up their abode under my roof, if Milton will cross my threshold and sing to me of paradise, and Shakespeare to open to me the world of imagination and the workings of the human heart, and Franklin to enrich me with his practical wisdom, I shall not pine for want of intellectual companionship, and I may become a cultivated man though excluded from what is called the best society in the place where I live. —Channing.

Grateful Women.

None receive so much benefit, and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women. It is the only remedy peculiarly adapted to the many ills the sex is almost constantly subjected to. Chloric fever, indigestion or deranged liver, constant or periodical sick headaches, weakness in the back or kidneys, pain in the shoulders and different parts of the body, a feeling of lassitude and despondency, are all readily removed by these Bitters.

Relapses in Typhoid Fever.

Some people depend wholly on domestic treatment in typhoid fever. They seem to be correct, for, in the large majority of cases—eight out of ten—the system throws it off wholly apart from medicine, especially if there is a strong circulation of pure air in the room, and the body is frequently sponged with cold water, or better, with a weak solution of common soda. The fact, however, that one cannot know beforehand the character of the case, makes it always safest in the hand of a faithful physician who can watch it and care for it according to the symptoms.

This becomes the more important in view of the discovery recently made by the late Dr. Irvine, of England, respecting relapses of typhoid fever, of which the London Lancet says, "To most of us it comes like a revelation."

He has shown that these most troublesome contingencies are much more frequent than is generally supposed by the profession; that, in fact, there are often several, the first predisposing to a second, that a real relapse may set in without any interval of convalescence; and that many cases of the disease, when they first come under the notice of the physician, are relapses, following upon a mild primary attack.

The fever normally lasts twenty-eight days. A first relapse, where there are no complications, lasts twenty or twenty-one days; subsequent relapses are each shorter than that immediately preceding. The interval of convalescence between the first attack and the first relapse, averages about five days, during which the temperature is natural, or nearly so. The onset of the relapse is marked by a sudden rise of temperature, which reaches its height by the fifth day, maintaining a high level until the eighth or ninth, when it falls decidedly, but again rises and gradually declines to the end on the twentieth or twenty-first day.

Farmers coming to the city in wagons complain of the condition of the roads.

Dr. St. John reports the removal of Will A. Zeininger to the pest house last night.

Dubuque, Iowa, with a population of 22,254, paid last year for gas over $13,000, and for water nearly $10,000.

The Guards and Merry Club will hold forth to-night at the Guards' armory. Anderson's orchestra will furnish the music.

The Misses Anna and Lillie Symonds of Monroe, and Miss Emma Wallace, of Milwaukee, were visiting friends in the city to-day.

Mr. Frank D. Kimball picked up a pocketbook to-day which the owner can have by proving property and calling at Britton & Kimball's.

The young men convicted of stealing butter from the Chicago and North-western cars, will not be sentenced till some time next week.

The sale of reserved seats for the Strakosch Grand Italian Opera will begin at Prentice & Evenson's, Saturday morning, at nine o'clock.

The Bower City Band are completing arrangements to give a grand entertainment, assisted by home talent, in this city on the evening of April 18th.

Harry G. Carter now feels the proudest livin' man in the city. It's a fine boy, and arrived last night, and the whole household is happy.

The case of the State against C. H. Penny, was removed to the circuit court on affidavit of defendant, that he could not get justice in the municipal court.

There will be services at St. Patrick's church to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock and at 10:30 o'clock, it being a holy day of obligation—the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

There will be a meeting of the Republican City Committee at 7 o'clock p. m., to-morrow evening at the office of John W. Sale, for the purpose of transacting important business.

The State against Juel Torgeson selling liquor without license at Edgerton on February 18th, was continued until next Monday, at 2 p. m., on account of the absence of important witnesses.

There are two cases of varioloid at the pest house, and two good nurses to attend them, the building occupied by them is said to be as comfortable as the absence of important witnesses.

Two new cases of varioloid are reported, Will A. Zeininger, of North Main street, a mild case, and a child of Enoch Taylor, on the Milwaukee road at the outskirts of the city. Mr. Taylor's house is strictly quarantined.

City Treasurer J. M. Haselton, paid over to the County Treasurer yesterday, $9,000 the total amount due the county and State, less $239.38 uncollected, a part of which is due on personal property and some of the parties owing it removed from the city before the State or county tax was collectable.

Our readers will not forget the lecture of Hon. J. G. Donnelly, before the Land League, at Lappin's hall next Monday evening. Mr. Donnelly has the reputation of being an entertaining speaker, and will interest his audience. The friends of Ireland should bear this in mind.

There were two tramps arrested last night, and sentenced in the municipal court this afternoon. Dan. Campbell, from Brooklyn, said he had no work, and no place to go, got seven days on bread and water. James Thompson, an able-bodied fellow, got 12 days on the same diet.

There are many false rumors afloat in the city regarding the varioloid, when in fact there are but three cases in the city. One rumor to the effect that a case exists in Mr. P. P. Schicker's bakery, on Main street is maliciously false, and Mrs. Schicker desires the report to be emphatically denied.

Mr. P. D. Cravath, the advance agent of the Oberlin College Glee Club, is in the city, making arrangements for the appearance of that club in this city, on Saturday evening, April 1st. They will probably appear under the auspices of the Janesville Guards, as negotiations for that purpose are in progress.

In the municipal Court Frank Doyle a laborer was sentenced to five days in the county jail on bread and water. Daniel Crockaw claiming to be from Milwaukee the same sentence, and John Burke, Chicago, the same. They are all tramps, and met the fate provided for all such that come here with evil intent.

John Larimer, of Milton came to this city yesterday, filled up on tangle foot whisky, and was unable to navigate Marshal Hogan kindly came to his relief and took him to the cooler to sober up. This morning he was taken before his Honor, who fined him $1 and costs. It is to be hoped that he will return to his family a wiser, and more sober man.

Messrs. R. P. Young and John C. Spencer have each received from Mrs. William Kemp, of New York, a very fine panel photograph of the late William Kemp. The pictures were taken by Natman & Sandham, of Montreal, last winter, while Mr. Kemp was visiting that city, and is one of the latest and best photographs ever taken of him. The pictures are as correct likenesses of the deceased as it is possible to make them, and Messrs. Young and Spencer highly prize them, as keepsakes of their friend and companion in the Janesville fire department of years gone by.

The lecture this evening by Miss Marion Murdoch before the M. I. C. will be one of the best of the course. The subject, "The drama and dramatists of the 16th century," will possess special interest at this time of revival in the study of Shakespeare. Miss Murdoch has given the subject years of careful study.

and she will present to the club to-night, some of the results of her labors. She is a pleasing speaker and possesses in a rare degree, the ability to interest while she instructs. Those of our readers who were so fortunate as to hear this lady on a former occasion, will gladly avail themselves of this opportunity.

Hemming's Brewery.

Among the many improvements which are to take place in Janesville this season, is Hemming's Brewery, the contract for the building of which has been awarded; the carpenter work to Messrs. Coling & Wray, and the mason work to Mr. Ed. Keating. The new brewery will be erected on a portion of the block known as the old Novelty works, on Franklin street, twenty-five feet fronting on Franklin and extending back eighty-six feet. The building is to be a frame, veneered with brick two stories high, with a ten foot basement. The first floor ceiling is to be ten feet, and the upper story eight feet. While Mr. Hemming will not state the contract price, he estimates the building, when completed, will cost him about $3,500. Workmen are already at work excavating for the cellar and foundation, and the contractors are making ready to crowd the building right along to completion. It will be the largest and most complete brewery in the city.

The Sack Company.

GENTLEMEN:—I notice by your last issue in the proceedings of the common council, that the application of W. B. Britton, that the Sack Company be allowed $50, was lost by a vote of five ayes, three nays. W. B. Britton never made application for such allowance of $50 for the Sack Company. One year ago the common council passed a resolution to pay the Sack Company $50 for rent of rooms, fuel and gas light; which we think all taxpayers will admit is a very modest allowance. The application referred to must have been made by some other person. We will state here that every member of the Sack Company are tax payers, and some the heaviest in the city; they give their services for nothing, and it certainly is worth something to a city like Janesville, to have a police force of twenty men at fires to look after property and remove it to places of safety; and when the common council is asked for the small sum of $50 to pay rent of rooms, fuel, &c., we think it pretty small to refuse. We do not know the three who voted no, but are of the opinion they are not very heavy tax payers.

W. B. BRITTON.

[The following is a true copy of the order:]

Ordered by the Mayor and common council of the city of Janesville, that the city clerk be instructed to draw an order for the sum of fifty dollars in favor of W. B. Britton, Treasurer of the sack company of said city, the same to be paid from the fire department fund.

[Signed,] CONRAD.

And the vote was as follows: Ayes—Conrad, Cox, Hawes, Murdock, Nowlan, Noyes—Fitzgibbon, Norris and Robinson.—Ed.]

The Saxe-Cobb Case.

Your article on Wednesday in regard to the Cobb verdict, hardly does me justice. I want to say there was a written contract signed by Mrs. Cobb, agreeing to give me $100 if I sold her farm—the price not mentioned. I had an offer to sell it for $3,600, but she would not take that price. After this Mrs. Cobb authorized me to sell it for $4,000, for which I was to receive $100. Mr. Horn came to my office, enquired about the price, and I told him he could have it for $4,000. Hearing that it rumored that she had an offer, I refused to sell to Horn until I had ascertained whether it was sold, and I told Horn if she had sold it I could do nothing, and told him to call in a few days and if Mrs. Cobb had not sold it, I would sell it to him.

Claiming to have a better offer than $4,000 Mrs. Cobb, through her attorney, voluntarily offered to give me the $100 commission if I could relinquish the contract and not sell to Horn. Through my attorney, I accepted the offer, surrendered the contract, received $100, and gave a receipt in full and this ended the matter until she brought suit to recover. I enter into no controversy about it, but these are simply the facts.

T. Olson, Taylor, Wis., says: "My daughter was so terribly burned about the face and neck that we feared she would be disfigured for life, but by promptly applying Cole's Carbolic Soap the pain was allayed, a new skin rapidly formed, and now she is completely cured and without a scar to show for it."

A POPULAR TONIC.

For Weak Lungs and Consumption. No preparation ever introduced to the American public, for the relief and cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Debilitated Constitutions, Weakness of the Lungs, or Consumption in the incipient or advanced stages of the disease, has ever met with the indorsements of physicians or patients as this Tonic has.

The repeated and continued sales of the article everywhere are the best evidence of its real merits. Letters and testimonials from every quarter of the country, attesting the stimulating, tonic and healing effects, are in possession of the proprietors, and are added to convince the most skeptical reader of its intrinsic virtues. Further commendation is unnecessary and superfluous, as a trial of this article, having a pleasant taste and agreeable flavor, will satisfy all those who are afflicted or pining away with pulmonary weakness of the relief to be secured by the use of Tonic, Rock and Rye. —Chicago Times.
